

Rudolfo and Patricia Anaya Premio Atzlán Literary Prize

Premio Atzlán is a national literary prize, established to encourage and reward emerging Chicana and Chicano authors. Noted author, Rudolfo Anaya and his wife, Patricia, established Premio Atzlán in 1993. After a brief hiatus the program has been revived by the University of New Mexico Libraries in their honor. Many of the recipients are now nationally recognized authors of Chicana/o literature.

Past award recipients include:

- Sergio Troncoso (1999)* (The Last Tortilla and other Stories)
Ronald Ruiz (1998) (Giuseppe Rocco)
Pat Mora (1997) (House of Houses)
Wendell Mayo (1996) (Centaur of the North)
Norma Cantu (1995) (Canicula: Snapshots of a Girlhood en la Frontera)
Denise Chavez (1994) (Face of an Angel)
Alicia Gaspar de Alba (1993) (The Mystery of Survival and Other Stories)

A prize of $1,000 will be given to a Chicana or Chicano writer for a work of fiction published in the 2004 calendar year. Authors who have published no more than two books are eligible for the prize. Self published books and manuscripts in process will not be considered. The winner will be expected to give a reading at the University of New Mexico Libraries during April 2005.

Publishers should submit a letter of nomination and authors should submit a letter of interest. Letters should include appropriate contact information and be sent with five copies of the book by December 31, 2004 to:

Rudolfo and Patricia Anaya Premio Atzlán Literary Prize
University Libraries, Dean's Office
MSC05 3020
1 University of New Mexico
Albuquerque, New Mexico 87131-1466.

Questions may be directed to Teresa Marquez at tmarquez@unm.edu, (505) 277-0582 or Dina Ma'ayan at dinam@unm.edu, (505) 277-7197 at the University of New Mexico Libraries.