NOTES AND NEWS

Color-marked Common Terns.—The Canadian Wildlife Service, Ontario Region, is continuing its program of color-marking Common Terns at two colonies in the lower Great Lakes to determine their post-breeding dispersal, migration routes, and winter range. In 1981 adults were marked with orange wing-tags and chicks with pink tags. Many of the adult-tagged birds returned to their colonies in 1982 still carrying their tags. The tagged birds appeared fit and nested normally. Most tags were still clearly legible and showed little wear. In 1982 bright blue wing tags (with black lettering) were put on adult Common Terns and black tags (with yellow lettering) on chicks just prior to fledging. Tags were put on both wings of all birds. All tags have combinations of letters and numbers (the two tags on any bird have the same combination). When you observe a tagged tern would you please report the date, location, color of the tag, and, if possible, the number/letter combination to: BANDING OFFICE, CANADIAN WILDLIFE SERVICE, HEADQUARTERS, OTTAWA, ONTARIO, CANADA, K1A 0E7. All reports will be acknowledged.

Color-marked Kites.—As part of a project to reestablish Swallow-tailed Kites in southern Kansas and to study the population biologies of this species and the Mississippi Kite, individuals of both species are being color banded. Some Mississippi Kites have also been given a colored patagial streamer on each wing. It would be appreciated if observations of these marked individuals, including color and condition of the markers and activity of the birds, were reported to the Office of Migratory Bird Management, Laurel, Maryland 20708 with a copy to Dr. Jim Parker, Department of Sciences and Mathematics, University of Maine at Farmington, Farmington, Maine 04938.

NOTES AND NEWS

In memoriam: Leon Hugh Kelso.—Leon Kelso was born in Gretna, Kansas on 4 September 1907 and passed away in Arlington, Virginia on 9 May 1982. He received a baccalaureate degree in biology (botany major) from the University of Denver on 7 June 1929 and a Master of Science from Cornell University in September 1938. Throughout his life Leon was deeply interested in owls. He published extensively on owls and named the Bare-shanked Screech Owl (Otus clarkii) after a Brethren minister who lived in Gretna, Kansas. The Reverend Clark befriended Leon and turned his interest towards birds by loaning him a Reed Bird Guide. Leon was a member of the Wilson Ornithological Society since 1930 and in 1978 became the first Honorary Member to be elected to the Northeastern Bird-Banding Association, an honor bestowed upon Leon for his outstanding contributions to the Recent Literature section of Bird-Banding. A quick count shows that in 17 years he published over 900 reviews, many of them from Russian ornithology. He was an important connection between American and Russian ornithology and as such will certainly be missed.
